

Solution:

(1)

If I deposited $1,000 to the bank, then the cash will increase for the bank, but the deposits liability will also increase by $1,000.

(2)

Deposits are treated as liabilities by bank because a bank is obliged to pay them whenever a demand comes, thus treating it as an unconditional debt.

(3)

Cash decreases by $75,000 but loans receivable increases by $75,000 if no interest is assumed.

(4)

Cash decreases by $5,000 and deposits also decrease by $5,000.
