

Solution:

In U.S. GAAP, the interest received and paid is added to the operating expenses as they believe that these are results of the operations.

In IFRS, the interest received may be added either in operations or finance depending upon the conditions. The paid interest may be added either to the operation or investments depending upon the conditions.