

Solution:

Depreciation is there which does not involve cash but is added to the statement of cash flow to account for the expense that is incurred due to it. This is hence added to the income in the indirect method of the operating cash flow.